For new homes in England built in affected areas shown on the maps in the 1999 edition of BR211, the builder or building control body should know what type of radon protection has been provided. If the reply is positive (but not if the reply is negative) the following statement (Informative) applies: Radon Affected Areas are designated by the National Radiological Protection Board. It is recommended that the level of radon gas should be measured in all properties within Radon Affected Areas. The present owner or (for a new property) the builder should be asked whether protective measures were incorporated in the construction of the property; whether radon levels have been measured in the property, whether the results were at or above the Action Level (prescribed by the NIRPB) and if so whether remedial measures were installed and whether the radon levels were re-tested and confirmed the effectiveness of the measures. A guide containing further information about Radon Affected Areas is available from DEFRA Warehouse Publications, Admail 6000, London SW1A 2XX (TEL. 08459 556000, FAX 020 8957 5012) or from DEFRA Radioactive Substances Division, Zone 4/E7, Ashdown House, 123 Victoria Street, London SW1E.
