Dear Mrs Bedford

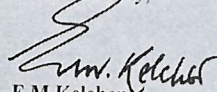

Re : Mr & Mrs J Charles Hilltop Farm Deerfold

We are currently instructed by Mr & Mrs Charles in connection with ancillary matters relating to the construction of the house which they are building on their property and in particular with Central Networks and the proposed new electricity supply to the house.

We understand that Central Networks have insisted that our clients construct a separate meter housing on their property for the purposes of the new electricity supply and that, in making the mains connection to the new meter, Central Networks will discontinue the supply to the existing meter box and apparatus which currently serves the pump adjoining the existing borehole. You will appreciate that our clients have sunk a second borehole on their property, from which their water supply will be taken.

Given that Central Networks will insist upon disconnecting the electricity supply to the existing pump, we are instructed to write, as a matter of courtesy, to advise of what is to happen and to ask that you make separate arrangements with Central Networks for a supply to the existing pump.

Yours sincerely,

E M Kelcher
